

Terry Quinn

Economic Advisor to the Tánaiste: Statement of Qualifications

Qualification for the position of Economic Advisor to the Tánaiste is based on more than 25 years experience working as an economist in a senior position in the Central Bank of Ireland, two years experience in the Economic and Social Research Institute together with a strong education background with post-graduate degrees from the National University of Ireland (NUI) at University College Dublin (UCD) and the University of London (UL) at the London School of Economics (LSE).

Education: MA Economics, National University of Ireland (UCD) 1985

MSc (Econ), University of London (London School of Economics) 1989

Employment:

1985-1987: Economic and Social Research Institute

1989-2014, Central Bank of Ireland

1989-1992: Economist in the Research Division

1992-2006: Senior Economist in Irish Economic Analysis Division

2006-Current: Deputy Head of Irish Economic Analysis Division

In my most recent role as the Deputy Head of the Irish Economic Analysis Division I managed a team of Economists in the provision of Irish Macroeconomic and Fiscal projections together with supporting research and conjunctural analysis. Macroeconomic projections together with accompanying analysis were published regularly in the Central Bank Quarterly Bulletin. Macroeconomic and fiscal projections were produced for the Eurosystem biannual Broad Macroeconomic Projection Exercise (BMPE), a key element in the euro area monetary policy formation.